Mrs. Little

Flynn's Crossing HOA

Dear Mrs. Little and residents of Flynn's Crossing,

I am writing to you regarding the care of your Bradford and Cleveland Select Pear trees in your community. As you may know, these trees, although a good choice of species for front yards, have some growth characteristics that can interfere with persons and property. Left without proper care, they can develop growth patterns that lead to branch loss or total failure.

The arborists at Pro Arbor are experts in the kind of structural pruning that can mitigate the problems encountered with these trees. Rather than simply cutting branch tips to reduce the size of the trees, our arborists look at the branch structure of the trees. Leaders and branches that are growing at angles that would make them susceptible to failure are removed with cuts that comply with arboriculture's best practices as defined by ANSI and ISA. If crown reduction is required, then cuts are made in a way that does not encourage excessive grow-back of poorly attached water sprout branches. The result is a tree with strong branch attachment and an aesthetically pleasing look.

Too often, we see trees of this species that have been improperly pruned by firms without the proper training and understanding of structural pruning. The result is, at best, a tree with an over-crowded interior canopy and a "bushy" appearance. At worst, these trees can suffer major limb loss or total failure because of these poor practices. Perhaps the worst part of employing amateur tree pruners is the money lost. Landscapers and amateurs tend to charge as much or more than professional arborists, and when the tree is lost it must be replaced, making it more expensive than hiring pros.

My firm has proposed a unit pricing for your community because of the current uniformity of your trees. I believe that this can give all of the residents of Flynn's Crossing a significant economic advantage in addition to creating a nice overall appearance of your community. I am looking forward to the opportunity to care for all of the trees in your community. This would give my firm the added benefit of being able to point to a whole community with healthy, beautiful trees to showcase our superior tree care.

I would like to personally invite any and all residents to contact me directly with any questions regarding their specific trees. I know that you will find our customer-centered approach to tree service a refreshing change to property care. I look forward to serving you.

Kind regards,
